

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would weaken or lessen the effect that Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law has had on residents of Indiana. It has been hugely popular and successful in cutting down telephone solicitations in our homes. I do not expect to be interrupted in my own home with unwanted commercials, solicitations, conversations requesting my personal information. I also think it may cut down on the number of scams committed on the elderly and disadvantaged. Please do not weaken our law by downsizing it to meet federal requirements. Shana Lucas 11/14/02
